This program is offered by the School of Communications. It is available online, at the St. Louis home campus and at the Fort Belvoir campus.

Program Description
The master of arts (MA) degree in public relations is intended for students who have an interest in public relations.

The degree balances the practical application of public relations skills with the theory that informs the field. The program will give students insights into how entrepreneurship, ethical frameworks and globalization provide key components shaping the current practice of public relations. The program is designed to give students the insights necessary to pursue a career in public relations or a related field.

Learning Outcomes
Successful graduates of this program will be able to:

- Design and perform public relations research and understand research findings in order to solve an organization’s communications problems.
- Demonstrate strategic-level analysis and critical thinking with an understanding of the effects of globalization and while following ethical models.
- Review trends and anticipate implications for future communications needs and challenges.
- Develop an understanding of how entrepreneurship, team-building and leadership affect the practice of public relations.
